

Diplomats Credit Russia With Strong Goodwill Effort

WASHINGTON (P)—Diplomats here credit Russia with another strong bid for international good will in its agreement to join the West in setting up a worldwide atoms-for-peace agency.

A 12-nation conference, including the Soviet Union and the United States, agreed last night on a charter for the proposed new organization which would function under the general sponsorship of the United Nations.

The charter will be presented to an 84-nation conference which will meet at U. N. headquarters in New York in September.

The agreement was announced by the State Department after a series of meetings which began Feb. 27.

The action appears to assure creation of a project initiated by President Eisenhower in December 1953. He called for an international atoms-for-peace pool which would spread the benefits of peaceful atomic power over the world.

In essence the organization is designed to pool contributed atomic materials from the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada primarily, and make them available to applicant countries which lack the knowledge and industrial resources for producing their own atomic fuels.

In the consuming countries the fuels will be "burned" in atomic furnaces to produce electric power and thereby raise the industrial level and living standards.

Russia for more than a year and a half refused to cooperate and the Western powers went ahead on their own. At the Geneva summit conference last July Premier Nikolai Bulganin told Eisenhower Russia would contribute fissionable material if an agency was set up. Subsequently Moscow agreed to take part in the conference here. Its representative was Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin.

Early in the sessions Zarubin conceded two points which helped to make the final outcome possible. He dropped a bid to include Red China. He also yielded on a Soviet proposal that the new agency be subject to the big power veto in the U. N. Security Council.

The Soviets are reported to have stated reservations on several points of the charter. But they joined in making adoption of the charter by the 12-country group unanimous.

Not all the objections came from Russia, however. India and some other nonatomic powers are reported to have protested that early drafts would have given them little say in the agency.

This was the third Soviet action this week seemingly calculated to promote the idea that Russia is now cooperating in constructive developments.

Others were an offer of cooperation in U. N. efforts to make peace between Israel and the Arab states and the announced dissolution of the international communist information agency, the Cominform.

American officials remain highly skeptical of Soviet aims in these maneuvers, but they concede they have wide appeal for millions of people.

The machinery provided by the charter for the new atomic agency consists essentially of:

1. A 23-nation board of governors with power to make decisions needed to develop and promote the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

2. A director general to be selected by the board and to serve as executive head of operations.

3. A staff of scientists, inspectors and others to conduct operations, provide technical advice to recipient countries and make certain that dangerous materials do not fall into unscrupulous hands.

4. A relationship with the U. N. to be worked out in detail by the board. It is understood the agency would report to the General Assembly and the Security Council but would not be subject to direct operations control.

The 10 nations which participated in the Washington talks in addition to the United States and Russia, are Britain, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, India, Portugal, and South Africa.

Soviet Leaders Start Parleys With British

Prime Minister Eden Holds To Attitude Of 'Deeds Not Words'

LONDON (P)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Khrushchev drove through London's sun-drenched streets today to lay a wreath on Britain's national war memorial.

It was the first public engagement for the Soviet leaders, who arrived here yesterday for a 10-day visit of sightseeing and talks with Prime Minister Eden.

As Bulganin and Khrushchev drove off to the Cenotaph Memorial in Whitehall the crowd was kept in keeping with the restrained and chilly reception the pair have received thus far. About a dozen people waved good naturedly to the Soviet leaders.

At the war memorial, the Kremlin chiefs deposited a five-foot tall creation of lilies and red roses. A white card on it said:

"From the great and gallant people of the Soviet Union to the eternal memory of the gallant warriors of Great Britain, who together with the gallant warriors of our country gave their lives in the first and second world wars in the common struggle for peace and the security of nations."

The ceremony took place in silence.

SEVEN AMERICAN TURNPIKE drivers and a Scotchman are shown in their University of Peiping quarters where, in an interview with International News Service correspondents, they all showed concern over possible action they might face if they returned to the U. S. Several said they would leave immediately if promised amnesty. Sixteen U. S. Korean war veterans who chose Communism rather than come home, are still in Red China. Shown (l. to r.) are: Harold Webb, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Andrew Condon (standing) West Lothian, Scotland; Morris Willis, Fort Ann, N. Y.; Richard Corden, Providence, R. I.; Clarence Adams, Memphis, Tenn.; Jack Dunn, Baltimore; Andrew Fortuna, Detroit, and Bill White, Plumerville, Ark. They miss most baseball, beer and girls.

Toll Ticket Switching Stunt Being Watched On Turnpike

YOUNGSTOWN (P)—Turnpike officials said today they were watching a "toll ticket switching" stunt on the Ohio Turnpike.

Two drivers for a New Jersey auto hauling firm have been fined $10 each by Justice of the Peace Donald D. Graham at North Jackson, near here, who said that by switching toll tickets they cheated the commission out of $1.40.

The stunt is that one driver with a heavy vehicle, which is charged a higher rate, takes the cheaper ticket of a driver manning a light vehicle and uses it for a long haul across the state.

The driver who has the lighter vehicle takes the more expensive ticket, but makes only a short ride and leaves the pike. Then he comes back on at the cheaper and legal rate for the rest of the ride across the state.

The men fined were Benjamin A. Fallon, 37, of Ripley Park, Pa., and Edward Wojciechowski, 42, of Lindewald, N. J.

Graham said the men pulled the stunt in this manner:

BOTH ENTERED at East Gate, from the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and their goal was Exit 5 near Toledo.

Shortly after they entered, Fallon who had the heavier vehicle, took his partner's cheaper ticket. His partner drove to the nearby Niles-Youngstown Interchange, left the pike and paid 65 cents instead of a normal 45 cents.

Then he reentered at the same interchange and continued in a normal manner. Eventually he caught up with his partner, who planned to get off near Toledo with

Sen. Humphrey Asks Dem Plank On Race Issue

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today the Democratic party can't afford to go to the voters with a 1956 platform that "ignores or rebukes" the Supreme Court's school integration decision.

Humphrey, who has taken a leading role in past convention fights for adoption of strong civil rights planks, will participate in a two-day Democratic rally opening here tomorrow.

The conference schedule calls only for informal discussion of campaign issues and leaders obviously hoped to avoid any public debate now on the civil rights question, with its threat to party unity.

But Humphrey said he thinks the party's presidential nominating platform will have to express "concurrence in and support of the Supreme Court's decision and the court's implementation of the integration order."

"That doesn't include any congressional or executive action on the issue," he said. "My position is that the court has taken jurisdiction and that it can and will gain compliance with its order."

GOP Seeking More Backing For Eisenhower's Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (P)—Republicans sought today to drum up support for the administration's soil bank program in the wake of yesterday's House vote upholding President Eisenhower's veto of the catch-all farm bill.

Meanwhile Agriculture Department statistics showed that consumers soon will be paying more for dairy products—at least 2 cents a pound for butter, 1 cent a pound for cheese and in many areas a penny or more a quart for milk.

These increases will come within a few days, reflecting government actions to raise income of the nation's dairy farmers.

The advance in butter and cheese prices will come about as a result of Eisenhower's directive to the Agriculture Department to raise support prices for butterfat and milk used for manufacturing purposes.

Democratic leaders had charted no plans for new farm legislation although Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.) said without elaborating "there may be something done."

Rep. Poage (D-Tex.) predicted

Three Bypass Easements Add Up To $47,500

that "if we get a farm bill, it won't be passed until the last week of the session in July."

In the Senate, 45 members, including four Democrats, cosponsored a soil bank bill.

In the House, all but one of the 16 Republicans on the Agriculture Committee introduced identical soil bank bills patterned along Eisenhower's recommendations.

Democrats generally do not oppose the soil bank, which contemplates payments totaling up to $1.2 billion yearly to farmers who agree to take land out of production of crops already in surplus. But Democratic leaders have insisted that any such legislation must be accompanied by higher price supports.

The higher prices for fresh milk will come from the Agriculture Department's action in increasing prices which distributors must pay dairymen supplying major urban markets where federal orders regulate the sale of milk.

In most of these regulated areas, producer groups as well as distributors are appealing for higher prices.

Normally, producer prices for milk for fresh use are reduced during the spring and summer season of heavy production. But in some of these markets, the department has recently suspended these seasonal reductions to return prices to their higher winter levels. In other areas, where hearings must be held, the agency is proposing to do the same thing.

A hearing is to be held tomorrow morning in Columbus to discuss the Ohio situation.

Hammaraskjold Says Pact In Effect Today

Arab-Jewish Tension Expected To Ease Now In Middle East Area

JERUSALEM (P)—Dag Hammarskjold announced today Egypt and Israel agreed to an unconditional cease-fire on their borders, effective at 11 a. m. (EST) today "and from that time on."

The U. N. Secretary General's announcement came out through headquarters of the U. N. Palestine Truce Commission almost 24 hours after the agreed deadline for an end to the hostilities such as those which flared dangerously two weeks ago.

The announcement of the agreement was issued simultaneously in Cairo, Jerusalem and the U. N. headquarters in New York.

"At the request of the Secretary General of the United Nations," it said, "the governments of Israel and Egypt have notified him that orders are in force to the effect that, in implementation of assurances to observe Article 2, Paragraph 2 of the Israeli-Egyptian armistice agreement, no military or paramilitary forces, including nonregular forces, may shoot across the demarcation line or pass over that line for any purpose whatsoever."

Independence Feels Air Of Anticipation

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (P)—There was an air of quiet anticipation in Independence today as the folks at 219 North Delaware awaited the arrival of the bridegroom-to-be.

Clifton Daniel Jr., the New York newspaperman who will be wed Saturday to Margaret Truman, was due after noon.

Margaret planned to meet him at the airport. Daniel will be a house guest of her parents, former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman. So will Daniel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Daniel of Zebulon, N. C., who are due tomorrow.

A big family party is scheduled at the Truman home tonight. It's to give Daniel a chance to meet Margaret's aunts and uncles.

In the big, white frame house on Delaware Street there was "hustle and bustle," the lady of the house said.

But the emphasis was on keeping wedding preparations quiet.

"We want the wedding to be very solemn and serious because it is," Mr. Truman said.

"They've got me muzzled," he added. He wouldn't talk politics.

He explained: "I wouldn't want anything to happen that would embarrass the boss or Margie." The "boss" is Mrs. Truman, and he made it clear she's giving the orders this week.

Margaret, 32, and Daniel, 43, will be wed at 5 p. m. Saturday in little Trinity Episcopal Church, where her parents were married 37 years ago. It's just a few blocks around the corner.

Lausche Disagrees On Driver Tests

COLUMBUS (P)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche doesn't agree Ohio needs to give driving tests to 2½ million drivers who never have taken an examination.

Highway Safety Director U. C. Felty had made tentative plans for such tests and had estimated they might eliminate about one-half million drivers.

Lausche observed:

"The driver should not be subjected to the inconvenience of being examined. There are other means of reaching the physically incompetent persons."

World Seems Like 'Heaven' After 16 Years In Prison

CHICAGO (P)—Roy Eaton looked at the world about him today. To him it seemed like Heaven.

Eaton, a small man of 52, has been out in the world for two weeks after spending 16 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit.

"It's like coming out of Hell and going right up to Heaven," he said as he told of the things that had impressed and amazed him in this strange, new land.

Automobiles: "I've seen cars in junk yards that were better looking than the cars we had back in 1940."

Clothing: "You see men wearing patterns now they wouldn't be caught dead in in the old days."

An airplane that whisked him to Los Angeles for a network television appearance: "It was like a mansion in the sky."

The carpeting in a Hollywood hotel where he stayed: "It was like walking in grass up to my knees."

And people: "I've met a lot of wonderful people. I didn't think so many of them cared about others. It makes a man feel good."

Eaton was freed April 4 in the Rock Island (Ill.) Circuit Court after investigation established that he had no part in a $50 robbery for which he was doing time in Stateville Penitentiary.

He has taken a room in St. Charles, west of Chicago, but hasn't had a chance to get a job.

"I've been going and coming so fast I haven't had time to think of employment," he said.

Eaton said he has been on several TV and radio programs that netted him $200, an electric shaver and a wrist watch. He's been interviewed by two magazine writers and contacted by an author who wants to do a book about him.

Six of the first seven letters he received were from sympathetic women.

"One," he commented, "was almost an outright proposal."

He'd like to go to work as a salesman, he said, but added:

"I'm waiting until things die down a little and I can do some thinking."

His attorney, Robert J. Gorman, said he plans to petition the Illinois Legislature for $250,000 to compensate Eaton for wrongful imprisonment.

But there was neither bitterness in Eaton's voice nor anger in his mild eyes when he observed:

"But there is no way they can give me back those 16 years."

Grace, Prince On Yacht For Honeymoon

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (P)—Movie star Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III became husband and wife in the eyes of their church today, gaily carved up their wedding cake and then boarded his yacht for a honeymoon.

A crowd of 2,000 cheered as the prince and princess went aboard the yacht—Deo Juvante II, which Rainier translates as "God helps us." Friends said they would be away 15 days.

Under the high-vaulted roof of Monaco's crowded Roman Catholic cathedral, the Hollywood film star and her Mediterranean Prince exchanged wedding vows — "until death do you part."

Today's ceremony was kissless, as was yesterday's.

The 26-year-old Oscar winner and the 32-year-old ruler of this 370-acre principality answered "oui" quietly as Bishop Gilles Barthe of Monaco asked each in turn the key question: "Do you take this . . . ?"

The ceremony, scheduled to take an hour, went over the limit by three minutes.

Her veil streaming in the breeze, the princess waved happily as the procession returned to the palace. Applause and cheers followed the procession. At the palace a bugle flourish from the guard signaled their entrance through the royal gate.

Grace told friends last night after busy rounds of entertainment: "I'll be glad to get on that yacht."

Coal Researchers Holding Parley

COLUMBUS (P)—Delegates to the annual meeting of Bituminous Coal Research, Inc., were to hear reports today on progress made in coal utilization methods and equipment, coal-burning gas turbine developments and mining.

At yesterday's meeting, T. S. Spicer, professor of fuel technology at Pennsylvania State University, proposed a four step program to overcome the "serious shortage" of fuel engineers.

He recommended more scholarships, establishment of professional chairs at colleges and universities, an industry-wide training program, and a more aggressive recruiting campaign.

Ohio Plane Landing Areas Total 360

COLUMBUS (P)—Nine airplane landing areas were added to Ohio's roster in 1955. C. E. A. Brown, director of aviation, says.

The additional areas bring the number of strips in Ohio to 360, with 172 of them commercially operated and 188 in personal use.

Brown said the 1956 Ohio Airport Directory lists 104 airports (larger fields with more elaborate facilities) and 68 landing fields among the commercial areas.

vice presidential candidate, expressed confidence the matter will be worked out without causing any walkout by Southern delegates.

"Every four years we have our differences over this issue," he said. "We never get a plank that is satisfactory to everybody but at least we get one that most of us are able to live with."

"It is going to be mighty difficult to write that plank but I hope that it can be done."

Sen. Holland (D-Fla.), another manifesto signer, promised a fight to prevent inclusion of any language he would regard as "an insult to the South."

Sam Brightman, publicity director for the national committee, said he doubts the civil rights issue will come formally before any of the conference sessions.

He said the national committee tomorrow will discuss convention arrangements and campaign techniques.

issued such orders to their forces.

Hamorskjold's task was complicated by an Israeli counter-demand that Egypt lift all restrictions on Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal. The secretary declared this was outside the scope of his peace mission.

Hamorskjold headed to the Middle East under Security Council orders to seek an easing of tension. He has conferred in Cairo with Nasser and in Israel with Ben-Gurion.

Jungschlager Dies As Trial Nears Verdict

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch Foreign Ministry today announced the death of Capt. Leon M. Jungschlager, the Dutchman on trial for his life in Indonesia.

A spokesman said Jungschlager, former chief of military intelligence in the Netherlands Indies, died after two cerebral hemorrhages.

Jungschlager has been on trial in Indonesia for more than a year on subversion charges. The Indonesian prosecutor had demanded the death penalty, accusing the retired naval officer of aiding a fanatic Moslem movement dedicated to overthrow of the Indonesian government.

The verdict was to have been given April 27, and foreign observers in Indonesia expected the court to find him guilty.

Jungschlager was arrested in Jakarta, Indonesia, Jan. 30, 1954, with 33 other Dutchmen while working for a shipping concern.

His son, Pte. John W. Jung who came to the United States in 1950 and entered the U.S. Army in 1951, recently asked President Eisenhower to help him save his father.

Jungschlager was a lieutenant commander in the Dutch naval air forces at the outbreak of World War II. In 1942-43 he trained Dutch airmen at Jackson, Miss.

From 1946-48 he headed the Dutch intelligence services at Jakarta. Later he returned to a pre-war post with an interisland shipping company in Indonesia.

He was also fined $50 and costs and sentenced to two days in jail for driving while his license was under revocation. Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff made the arrest.

OTHER CITY COURT CASES included the following:

John B. Allen, 31, of Simpsonville, S. C.; $25 and costs for illegal use of dealer's license plates, and $10 and costs for transporting an over-sized house trailer after dark; arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Gene R. Stevens, 18, of Laurelville, and Clyde E. Fausnaugh, 20, of Circleville; each fined $25 and costs for reckless driving; both arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl White.

Helena D. Hicks, 27, of Willow Run, Mich.; $5 and costs for passing a red light; arrested by Chief of Police Elmer Merriman.

Enoch S. Allen, 48, of Ironton; $15 and costs for speeding 50 in a 35 miles per hour zone; arrested by Officer John Lockard.

In Chillicothe Municipal Court, Ralph Stewart, 31, of Kingston, was fined $20 and costs for speeding. He was arrested on Route 23 south of Chillicothe by the State Patrol.

Benson Explains Why Ike Boosting Farm Price Props

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today that the administration raised price supports on some farm products "to bridge the gap until a sound soil bank can become operative."

The action was needed to bolster farm income, Benson told the Senate Agriculture Committee, because "we do not have the weapons we had counted on to pull down the surplus and strengthen farm prices."

Benson was called before the committee to explain the price support-boosting action announced by President Eisenhower in his message vetoing a Democratic-backed farm bill. The measure contained the soil bank plan. It also had numerous support-boosting features which the administration disliked. Some Democrats have questioned the propriety of Eisenhower's action and suggested it ran counter to administration arguments that high supports encourage surpluses.

Benson said farm law establishing the administration-backed flexible price support system gives ample authority or raising supports after they are once set.

"THE LAW provides that the basic commodities may be supported above the minimum levels specified in the flexible scale," Benson said.

Under the President's action, supports for wheat were raised from 76 to 83.7 per cent of parity, corn from 81 to 86.2 and rice from 75 to 82.7. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Benson emphasized that the increases in supports are "based on the prospect of sound soil bank legislation that would attack the surplus problem head-on. I do not approve of a permanent floor for the basic commodities at 82.5 per cent of parity without regard to supply."

Benson said that once support prices have been announced they cannot legally be lowered. Benson like the President, urged Congress to pass a soil bank bill so it can be put into operation before fall seeding of next year's crops.

Cole Given Big Ovation In Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Negro singer Nat King Cole, attacked while performing in Birmingham, Ala., last week, received a deafening roar of applause from some 10,000 white and Negro fans here last night.

The singer, who said he canceled an Atlanta appearance Tuesday night because he feared a repetition of the Birmingham attack, was escorted to the armory by city police. Detectives were scattered throughout the audience, but Police Chief Carl Heustis said this was simply precautionary.

Referring to sentencing of his attackers in Birmingham yesterday, Cole told reporters "I'm glad to see them take a stand in that direction. No one in that capacity (the attackers) should go without reprimanding, regardless of where the incident happened or to whom it happened."

Three Anniston, Ala., men were sentenced yesterday to 180 days in jail and fined $100 each plus court costs for the April 10 attack on the Alabama-born Negro. They were Mike Fox, 36; E. L. Vinson, 25, and Orless Wade Clevenger, 18.

A fine of $100 and an 80-day jail sentence was given Jesse W. Mabry, 43, Birmingham, associate editor of the White Citizens Council publication.

All defendants were members of the North Alabama White Citizens Council which is campaigning against what they call "Negro music."

Boy, 14, Enters Prison For Life

MOONSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—Tommy Williams entered the West Virginia Penitentiary yesterday to begin a life sentence for clubbing to death a 9-year-old playmate.

The 14-year-old Wheeling youth was brought here in an automobile by Deputy Sheriff C. O. Miller of Ohio County. Tommy had been held in Ohio County jail at Wheeling, 12 miles away.

There was no indication as to whether he will remain here or be transferred to the medium security prison at Huttonsville. The decision is up to the board of control in Charleston, which administers the state's penal institutions.

Pro-Segregationist GOPster Wins Post

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A pro-segregation Republican has been named to the Caddo County police jury, the first Republican to be elected in the Shreveport area since the Civil War.

Charles T. Baird, 33, defeated Democratic incumbent Thomas P. Fitzgerald. Baird was one of 14 elected to the jury.

Baird polled 5,652 votes to 3,294 for Fitzgerald, an attorney, who favors integration.

Five other Republicans ran for posts on the jury, the county governing body; all were defeated.

George Washington Cannot Tell A Lie

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The man being questioned by police said "I cannot tell a lie. I committed the crime."

The officers weren't surprised by the admission because they said the man's name was George Washington.

And just to keep in the spirit of things, he was 76.

He was released when the person against whom the crime had been committed refused to bring charges.

Corn Cobs Stolen At Grain Elevator

A load of corn cobs was reported stolen from the Heffner Grain elevator at Woodland, a mile south of Williamsport, sometime last night.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards said it appeared that a large truck backed in to one of the bins where the cobs were taken. In doing so, the truck smashed into part of the elevator, causing approximately $50 damage, the deputy reported.

Edson O. Crites Celebrates 84th Birthday Today

Former Cemetery Superintendent In University Hospital

Friends from all over the district are beaming their best wishes toward Edson O. Crites.

Crites, who resigned from his job as superintendent of Forest Cemetery after spending a quarter of a century in that office, observed his 84th birthday today. He is a patient in University Hospital, Columbus. Illness forced his resignation.

Crites has been connected with cemetery and funeral work for more than half a century, starting in 1904. He succeeded Frank Gordon at the cemetery post in 1931.

Since that time he has become widely known for his work in beautifying the burial grounds in the North.

Crites is a student of history—of human beings and of the cemetery's role in this community's growth. He is considered an avid student of Abraham Lincoln, and constantly worked on "family trees". For many years he has been working on a history of the cemetery.

Crites was born in Stoutsville and was graduated from a business school in Lancaster. He moved to Pickaway County about 1911. He worked at Cook's Book Store on W. Main St.

Prior to his work as superintendent, he has been a farmer and also sold monuments and mausoleums. He is a 50-year Mason and a life elder in the Presbyterian Church.

He married the former Emma Dreisbach in 1913. She died in September of 1954. His parents were Allen and Mary Stapleton Crites.

A brother, Eugene M. Crites, an undertaker, died 10 years ago.

Franklin D. Crites, a son, lives at 125 Park Place. A daughter, Mrs. Hildebrand Jones Jr., resides on Dartmouth Drive. A foster daughter, Mrs. Helen Hopiak, lives at Bath, N. Y.

Anti-Union Church Sect Has Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a religious sect forbidden to join labor unions headed home with little guidance from the government on how they can otherwise get industry jobs.

A half dozen bearded, black-garbed members of the sect, the old German Baptist Brethren, conferred yesterday with Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Theophilus Kammholz, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

Both officials said the group's problem was more with the unions than with the government.

The church members arranged to return here in a couple of weeks for a conference with AFL-CIO President George Meany.

They gave the officials a statement saying that while they had no objections to labor unions, they had "accomplished much for the working classes" their faith prevented them from joining unions.

They said they believe strictly in nonresistance and unions are often involved in conflict.

Lester Fisher of near Covington, Ohio, spokesman for the group, said the 250-year-old sect's youth was being crowded out of the farms into industry. Some, he said, had found jobs only to lose them when they refused to join unions.

Accompanying Fisher were Levi Bowman, also of Covington; N. A. Hochman, Springfield, Ohio; Willis Hess, Waynesboro, Pa.; and David Benedict and Denny Garber, both of Chambersburg, Pa.

VFW Plans Meet For National Headquarters

Members of District 11 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will entertain the VFW national commander, Timothy J. Murphy, with a special "roundup" program next week.

The event is scheduled for the Veterans Memorial Building, 288 W. Broad St., Columbus, next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. The VFW District 11 auxiliary unit will participate.

All members of the VFW and its auxiliary branches, including those in Pickaway County, are invited to attend. They may also bring guests.

Further information on the Columbus gathering can be obtained from local officers of the VFW.

Big Future Seen For Bellaire Area

BELLAIRE (AP)—An official of Olin Mathieson predicted that this section of the Ohio Valley will become "the chemical and industrial center of the world" as ground was broken by the company for a new aluminum plant at nearby Buckhill Bottom.

Executive Assistant Carter Dye made the prediction at ceremonies held in snow, sleet and near-freezing temperatures. The ceremonies were cut to 20 minutes because of the inclement weather.

AWOL GI Handed 16-Year Sentence

BERLIN (AP)—An American Army private who went AWOL and spent more than three years in Soviet prison camps was sentenced by a U. S. military court today to 16 years at hard labor.

Pvt. Sidney Ray Sparks, 23, of Tennille, Ga., pleaded guilty before a general court-martial to charges of robbery, breaking arrest, desertion and seeking asylum in Communist East Germany.

The court imposed the maximum penalty. The sentence, subject to review by higher authority, included dishonorable discharge and loss of pay and allowances.

Cole's Attackers Get Jail Sentences

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Judge Ralph Parker yesterday convicted three Citizens Council members of attacking Negro singer Nat King Cole and ordered them jailed for maximum terms of 180 days.

Parker sentenced a fourth man to 180 days for conspiracy to commit a breach of the peace and disorderly conduct. Cole was shaken up but not badly hurt April 10. The white men rushed onto the stage here and attacked him.

Smooth Talkers Get Scrap Metal

OMAHA (AP)—Henry Stolley, a welding shop owner, came to police Wednesday night to tell them: "Three men came to his business place and told his assistant they wanted to make a purchase. The assistant told the men to see Stolley, absent at the time."

Later the men came back, told the assistant they had talked to Stolley, loaded their truck and departed.

They took three tons of scrap iron.

By their bones and stamps you may know them! If one is familiar with the bone and muscle structure of a cut of meat, it is easy to make identification as to location in the carcass of the animal. (The "steak house" is located just back of the ribs.)

The inspection stamp and grade stamp are guides which foodshoppers should consider in buying meat. The round purple stamp tells the food shopper that meat has been inspected for wholesomeness. The shield-shaped purple stamp indicates that the meat has been graded on the basis of quality, "shape and fat."

The highest quality grade is "U. S. prime". That is followed in order by "choice", "good" and "commercial".

"Choice" and "good" are the most common grades sold in Ohio retail markets.

About half of the beef sold in Ohio meat markets is government inspected and graded. Many packers use their own brand name to indicate grade and degree of quality.

WHEN THE shopper sees high price tags on rib and rump roasts and loin steaks of beef, then hears about farmers getting maybe only 25 cents a pound for the live animals from which such meat cuts come, they sometimes wonder. Consumer food marketing specialists give us these facts and figures for an explanation:

Only a minor portion of the beef carcass is in the desirable, tender cuts. Much more of the animal's body goes into less tender cuts of meat which must sell for lower prices. There is a large amount of waste from parts of the animal that are not edible at all.

When all this is accounted for, it is easier to understand that relatively high prices must be charged for the relatively small part of the animal which goes into the choicest cuts.

Attention is currently being called to tender cuts of beef that can successfully be cooked with dry heat, and that have only a small amount of connective tissue. The tender cuts of beef are recognized as the rib and rump roasts, and all the loin steaks that come from those parts of the animal's body which are used for support.

The less tender cuts come from the parts of the animal's body which are used mainly for locomotion, or movement.

Roasts are sometimes sold boned and rolled. Shoppers can expect to pay higher prices per pound for this convenience. One way to estimate how much more such cuts are actually worth is to allow approximately one-third more in the price for boned and rolled roasts than for the same cuts with the bone still in.

THE REASON for this is that these cuts will yield about one-third more servings, pound for pound, when boned than with the bone still in. In other words — as specialists put it—if a pound of standing rib roast will serve two, a pound of boned and rolled rib roast should serve three.

In selecting tender cuts of beef, food shoppers should consider beef that has: Large proportion of lean to fat and bone, bright cherry red color, flecks of fat or marbling evenly distributed in the lean, porous red bone as an indication of youth and tenderness, soft cartilage tip, fine textured lean and enough outside fat to make it juicy and flavorful without excessive waste and shrinkage (this may vary with the likes and dislikes of the family).

For tender, juicy, flavorful rib or rump roasts, place meat on a rack in a shallow pan, fat side up. Use no water. Cook uncovered. Use 300 to 325 degree Fahrenheit heat of oven temperature.

Beef, be it more or less tender, provides the protein needed by people of all ages for the building and renewing of body tissues. Beef enhances the protein value of grain products and protein-rich vegetables when eaten with them. Lean beef is a valuable source of B-vitamins and of phosphorus and iron. Liver, with its iron and

One-Man Goodwill Campaigner Dies

CLEVELAND (P)—A Russian immigrant, who tried to spread American goodwill through Latin America and other nations by giving them pedigreed bulls, died here yesterday at 72. Isaac Evans was head of the Master Mechanics Co. and owned a number of farms in Geauga and Lorain counties. As part of his goodwill campaign, he had presented prize Holstein and Brown Swiss cattle to such nations as Colombia and Mexico. In 1950 the Italian government honored him for similar gifts to that country.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Can you tell me why I get so ghastly upset by the following? And what I can do about it? Each time the situation arises I hardly recognize myself. I am 52; my husband is 60; and he has a lifelong friend his age, who spends a few days each year with us.

The first time Sam came, 15 years ago, I anticipated the visit happily. But then, and ever since, he has brought with him, unwitting (and unwelcome to me) his "girl friend"—a very healthy, handsome, loud sort of woman about 20 years his junior. The first time, I thought they were engaged and made them very welcome. Later I learned they have been going together for years. Now they are still going together, everywhere.

This is my husband's home, definitely, he is the provider; and it seems he is going to have his way about these visits, regardless of my feelings. It is the only point of bitter disagreement we've ever had. I deeply and loudly resent his forcing her in here. He could reserve rooms for them at a nearby hotel, and I wouldn't mind having them out for dinner and the evening.

But he gives her a hearty ("ticked to death") welcome, assigns her to our one guest room (Sam gets the living room couch).

—and I am stuck having to feed and wait on her.

DEAR P. Y.: Let's call Sam's girl friend Dora. As to why her visits get you so "ghastly upset" that you hardly recognize yourself at such times, I think it's because you are reacting with fear and jealousy and moral disapproval of your husband's unduly friendly interest in her.

The house may be John's, in the sense that he provides the upkeep. But it is also yours, as his wife. And if you shrink from close association with a woman of Dora's type, and find her morally confusing, you have a right to balk at having her as a house guest. And if John were a first-rate team-mate, a conscientious father and loyal spouse, he would respect your scruples along these lines—and let you decide on a middle ground of courtesy.

M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Spanish Morocco Scene Of Rioting

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco (AP)—Nine persons perished in fires, three others were killed and 20 injured in street rioting in Larache and Alcazar Quivir between followers of Morocco's two main political parties.

Both towns are in Spanish Morocco just inside the border from French Morocco.

The fighting broke out between followers of the Istiqlal (Independence) and the Nationalist Democratic parties. An enraged mob of Moroccans from both towns soon joined in on the side of the Istiqlal.

Sunburn Curative Seen In Trees

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP)—A little pill made from sun-drenched fruit trees is being studied in the desert here to determine whether it has the power to prevent sunburn.

Scientists from the University of Arizona and the University of Oregon hope the drug, psoralen, will speed the sometimes painful process of tanning.

Psoralen, derived from fig and citrus trees, has been used by the Egyptians for centuries to deepen skin pigmentation.

Bell Phone System To Spend $2 Billion

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bell telephone system companies will spend more than $2 billion in 1956, largest expansion program of any American private enterprise in history, Cleo F. Craig, president of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., reports.

"As of right now, the Bell system is serving approximately 47 million telephones," Craig said. "Barring unforeseen developments when shareholders meet in 1957, we should be celebrating 50 million telephones in service." Last year AT&T spent $1.6 billion on expansion.

Charley Foy Asks Name Change

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Charles Richard Fitzgerald told superior court that during the war when he was in the Army he often failed to answer to his name at bed check and mail call.

Fitzgerald said this and similar inconveniences prompted him to ask the court to legalize his stage name, Charley Foy.

Foy, 57, is the son of the late Eddie Foy, a famous vaudeville performer.

Robot Attendant Suffers Damage

COLUMBUS (AP)—The robot attendant at a municipal parking lot here suffered a broken arm, apparently in the line of duty.

City Traffic Engineer James V. Musick theorized that a chiseler had attempted to follow a paying customer through the gate. The arm of the electronic gate is timed so that it comes down on the "gate crasher" mid-hood. But no sign of a damaged car was found.

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are good reasons for the Russians to step into the Middle East crisis as peacemakers and to agree to go along with a world agency to develop atomic energy for peace.

They have deliberately presented themselves in a new and friendly role, and they must seem to live up to it by deeds if they want to be believed. They can only get what they want if they are believed in a world long suspicious of them.

What they want—and Communist party boss Khrushchev has said so—is world communism. That hasn't changed. Their tactics have. Khrushchev said they should try to take over peacefully where they can and by force only where they have to.

To sound convincing they had to take a first, drastic step. This meant disowning Stalin who had come to personify communism as violence, murder and revolution.

Stalin, set in his ways, relied on force alone. In his lifetime communism never advanced an inch without force. But reliance on force alone has become increasingly dangerous for the Soviet Union.

Since the United States and Russia both have atomic weapons neither can attempt force without the risk of destruction itself. With something besides force now necessary, Russia's new peaceful line emerged.

Winning peacefully takes time. The Russians seem willing to take it. They have a lot of time. They have made tremendous progress in science and production. They will make far more if they stay out of war.

They are the Middle East's next-door neighbor. They can't take it by force without facing war with the United States. And at the moment they are not in a position to take it from within, either peacefully or by revolution.

In every Arab country of the Middle East, including Egypt to whom Russia recently sent arms through Czechoslovakia, the Communist party is illegal. There are Communist undergrounds.

If there were upheavals in the Middle East Friday—according to information here—the Communists in the area are not strong enough to take over.

So it will take time, and plenty of evidence of good will from Russia, before the Communists in the Middle East get legal recognition as a political party and therefore have a chance to move into the governments.

Meanwhile, Britain would almost certainly move into the area with force if fighting between Arabs and Israelis threatened to shut off Britain's Middle Eastern oil supplies. France and the United States would probably back her up.

Once in, it would be likely they'd retain control of the area for some time to maintain peace. Russia couldn't oust them except by going to war. Why should she chance that?

She can hope to dominate the area eventually peaceful means since the British and French are widely hated there.

As for the Russian agreement to join the atoms-for-peace agency, the Soviets would have let the United States walk off with the lead in this field if they didn't join.

Under the pushing of President Eisenhower this international agency would have gone on making friends for the West without Russia.

$73 Million Ohio River Dam Due To Be Started Monday

CINCINNATI (AP)—Army Engineers, readying the Ohio River for commerce well past the year 2000, will break ground next Monday on a new $73,600,000 navigation dam at Markland, Ind., 65 river-miles below Cincinnati. It will be the third such dam in a proposed system of 21 to be started within 18 months.

Initial work already is under way on locks at New Cumberland, W. Va., 55 miles below Pittsburgh, and at Greenup, Ky., 132 miles above Cincinnati. Construction of the Greenup installation finds coffer-damming in place for a main 1,200 foot lock and 600 foot auxiliary chamber. Ground was broken at Greenup in October 1954, and for New Cumberland last November.

In all, said Col. J. L. Person today, it will be a billion dollar, 20-year program intended to replace 41 of the present 46 structures with 16 modern high-level dams. Col. Person heads the Ohio River Division of U.S. Engineers. The remaining five facilities—not so old as the others—will be modernized by construction of uniform 1,200 foot and 600 foot locks. The largest of the locks will be twice as long as those now in use.

The groundbreaking ceremonies April 23 are expected to provide a climax for meetings to be held simultaneously in three Ohio River communities. At Cincinnati, Col. Person will address a luncheon meeting of top figures in river transportation, allied interests and government. At Vevay, Ind., Indiana Gov. George N. Craig will share the platform with Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.) and others. At Carrollton, Ky., Gov. A. B. Chandler and Kentucky Sen. Earle C. Clements will speak.

Schools in Carrollton and other river communities have announced plans to suspend classes during the afternoon.

The groundbreaking proper will be accomplished by an explosive charge to be set off at 4 p.m. (EST) at the Kentucky end of the proposed dam.

Lausche's Old Foe Fires New Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Hays (D-Ohio) during House debate on the farm bill yesterday asserted that Gov. Frank J. Lausche "would have kicked the farmers of the nation in the teeth" if the bill had been left up to him.

Hays, long a bitter foe of the five-term Ohio chief, made the remark in reference to a news story quoting Lausche as saying that he would have vetoed the farm bill even more quickly than the President did.

Hays also declared that Lausche has tried to "ruin the school system in Ohio," and "has permitted the Ohio highways to deteriorate until they are among the worst in the nation."

Chartered buses and boats will carry persons to the ceremonies in the three cities, and to and from the groundbreaking scene.

Sponsorship is in the hands of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association (OVIA), a non-profit organization of river interests with headquarters in Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

Need for the proposed system of modern dams has been stressed before Congress by the OVIA on the basis of research disclosing that since World War II, more than 2,500 industries have invested well in excess of ten billion dollars in new Ohio Valley plants and in expansion of existing facilities. Of that figure, said Hudson Biery, executive vice-president, more than nine billion dollars have come to the valley since 1950.

Ohio River commercial tonnage has spiraled from a three to five million figures during early years of this century to an estimated 65 million tons for 1955. The result is that present aging dams with their 600 foot locks no longer are able to serve commerce with anything like reasonable adequacy, Biery said.

Army Engineers say the new dams, even though built to endure through an economic life of 40 to 50 years, actually—considering advanced design and technological improvements in construction materials—should serve river commerce for a much greater time.

(Tomorrow: Why build new dams? For one thing, the river is so crowded that a coal barge can be loaded in five minutes, but may wait five to six hours for lockage).

Adlai Believes U.S. Should Tell Arabs 'Israel To Stay'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says the United States should "make it clear to the Arabs that Israel is here to stay."

Stevenson made his statement Wednesday night in a rally at Pittsburgh as he carried his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into Pennsylvania.

Stevenson, referring to the Republican campaign slogan of "peace and prosperity," said "the peace is but an uneasy truce and the prosperity has failed countless small businesses."

His is the only name that will appear on the Democratic ballot in the state's April 24 presidential primary. He has the support of Gov. George M. Leader and other top state Democrats.

He Can't Put Blame On His Pet Crow

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph Albanese, a Long Island manufacturer's representative, was fined $10 in traffic court for unnecessary automobile honking.

He claimed that his pet crow Orlander hopped up on the steering wheel and did the honking.

LAFB Paper Again Takes High Honors

The Lockbourne Air Force Base newspaper, The Skyhawk, continues to take high honors. The paper is printed by The Herald.

The base paper was judged the third best in the Strategic Air Command in competition with 41 others in a recent contest. One consolation is that the LAFB papers which were judged were those prior to changing over to a tabloid format.

The Skyhawk, writer by LAFB personnel, is being entered in the first annual contest for the best base newspaper in the Air Force. Three copies of six consecutive editions of the tabloid-type papers will be judged next January to determine the 1956 winner.

In this competition, the papers will be judged according to the size of the base, instead of the type of paper. Lockbourne falls in Category 3, which is 5,000 to 10,000 personnel on the base.

Meanwhile, The Skyhawk received its second All-American rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. Only 10 percent of the weekly university papers in the country earn this high rating.

Fall Proves Fatal

DAYTON (AP)—Harry R. Haines, 61, of Arcanum was killed yesterday when he fell 20 feet from a scaffold at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, where he had been employed for 12 years.

Congresswoman OKs Poll Of Ladies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis P. Bolton (R-Ohio) says she does not think it "silly" to ask women what kind of houses they like. She defended Housing and Home Finance Administrator Albert M. Cole's plan to have women express their views on home building.

Rep. Bolton told the House: "I object to those who say it is silly and useless to ask for their very pertinent information from homemakers."

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

MORE THAN 60 million Americans have just filed income tax returns. Because many of these are husbands who filed joint husband-wife returns, about two-thirds of the 110 million adults are included in tax returns.

This would have astounded, if not appalled, the members of Congress who passed the income tax legislation in 1913. In that year, exemptions were $4,000 for a married person and $3,000 for a single one. On taxable income above these limits, the rate was only one per cent up to $20,000. The maximum was only six per cent and this didn't begin to operate until the $500, 000 net income level!

Even during World War I, the exemptions didn't go below $2,000 for married and $1,000 for single, and six per cent was the highest rate on taxable income up to $4,000. Those were the days!

A few more facts. For about 50 years, Americans paid no federal tax at all. This was 1802-13 and 1818-61. The first progressive income tax imposed in this country was during the Civil War. A second income tax law was passed in 1894 but ruled invalid until the Sixteenth Amendment was ratified in 1913.

Even in 1939, at the climax of the pre-war New Deal, only one out of every 32 Americans paid any income tax. All this ended in 1943, though, under the impact of World War II. At that time one-third of Americans became taxpayers. Today the rates run from 20 per cent to 91 per cent.

STRAIN ON IVAN'S MIND

IF CONSISTENCY is a jewel, the Russian leaders have only rocks for adornment. The score kept on mention of the name of Stalin in oratory at the party congresses four years apart shows how easily the Kremlin despots shift gears from forward to reverse.

Stalin was still among the living in 1952 when the communist party congress met that year. Then Khrushchev referred in glowing terms to Comrade Stalin 14 times. This year he mentioned him casually once. Former Premier Malenkov, Stalin's designated successor, lauded his boss 51 times four years ago, and this year not once.

Bulgarian, Mikoyan and others were similarly remiss in recalling the glories of their former lord.

In 1952 Mikoyan said "the bright light of the science of Comrade Stalin enriches our lives." This year he remarked that Stalin's contributions to Soviet Russia were of doubtful merit.

One year the Soviet leaders were saying "O, King, live forever!" and the next year another king was doing his best to erase all signs of Stalin's former effulgence.

The Russian people must be about like any others. What does it do to a man's mind to be told to think a character is a hero in 1952 and a bum in 1956.

CONQUEST OF TIME

ONE OF THE more mystical aspects of religion was uttered in the ancient hymn, "When the trumpet of the Lord shall sound and time shall be no more." That concept is beyond the grasp of finite minds.

Now the Navy has a computing machine for multi-dimensional space. It occupies a large building and is so intricate that its work would be difficult for lay minds to grasp. But it helps scientists probe into space and reckon the forces which deter-

What Actually Is A Slum?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are innumerable slum clearance programs abroad here, as elsewhere in America.

But what is truly a slum?

Most people would probably agree that any area in which people regularly paid more rent than they could afford, were overcrowded, who had less space and light and air than they humanly needed were living under slum conditions.

If, as many people in the upper East Side of Manhattan do live under these conditions by choice because they feel the address gives them a prestige, who is there to criticize them?

Very few or none. The warrens of the pseudo-rich are spared, but only temporarily. The true rich move away.

They do certainly in other cities. Usually they move away and their ancient spacious houses become the warrens of the poor. A warren is a crowded place.

In Manhattan Island the problem is different from other cities. For half a century the whole island has been unduly pushed together, population-wise. It has been a civic warren for a long time.

Old neighborhoods have a stubborn urge to stay together. The people who live there don't want to be displaced, and move reluctantly when new "projects" are built.

Some are not without money. Some on the West Side and the lower East Side have more cash in the bank and have had for years, than transients who dwell on the fashionable East Side, and live from cuff to cuff.

The difference is that, having money, they put up with true slum conditions (lack of space, sun, line, fresh air and personal sanitation facilities) because

These Days

Every morning, after breakfast, I am required to rest for one hour, after I am required to eat unsalted, unsweetened provender. Also, I am given a substitute for robust coffee which they tell me I shall become accustomed to if I live long enough.

It is in the mood of such a breakfast which no longer terminates with a long, black, Havana cigar, that I read newspapers. The question that has confronted me for several weeks is whether I should read the news or observe the wedding which is rapidly becoming the greatest show on Earth.

After all, the world does love romance and the outward manifestations of romance, and the reporters who write about Grimaldi as being royalty, while inaccurate, because he belongs to no royal house, do stimulate a childhood interest in the Prince and the Pauper and the Cinderella legends, although it does stretch the imagination somewhat to think of Grace Kelly as a Pauper or a Cinderella.

As a matter of fact, if she stayed with MGM, she could have earned more than Grimaldi earns in Monaco but love overlooks such matters and in Monaco there is no income tax, only a 10 percent transaction tax.

So I read about the wedding, being in my second adolescence since I got well, and I find it very interesting to gaze at pictures which look so often like mob scenes directed by Cecil B. De Mille. Sometimes when I read what the American female correspondents write about the wedding, I cannot quite figure out whether Grimaldi is being married to Grace Kelly or to the female correspondents. I am sure all will be straightened out in due course.

I do not know the parties at issue but were I well enough to travel, maybe I would have gone to the wedding as a reporter and written for you many tales of wonder and excitement, particularly about the decaying European nobility which is so rapidly disappearing.

In fact, I think that the remaining crowned heads of Europe did wrong not to go to the wedding because then they could all be photographed together to show the world how few of them are left. The great Hapsburg family—the most important of all—, of course, has no crown anywhere. The Hohenzollern, who are upstarts, is rapidly descending into the proletariat. The House of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, now known as the House of Windsor, reigns in England but rules nowhere.

The Romanovs are gone, except Mike who runs the best restaurant in Hollywood and who should really drop the whole thing now that he is doing so well in the eating line. What has become of the Hohenstaufen, I do not know. The Scandinavian royalty is rather recent, not going back too far into history, and they are socialistic kings, which is a dichotomy.

The reason that the crowned heads say away is because in Europe a royal highness snubs a serene highness, if that makes any difference. The Duchess of Windsor knows how snooty royalty can be. Protocol is very important to those who have nothing to live for but protocol and it is to be hoped that Grace Kelly when she becomes Grace Grimaldi will take her father's advice and not let herself be pushed around by protocol.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

IT WAS JULY before Meg returned. Jason had made the threatened trip to Victoria, returning in a rage.

"She won't set a date until she comes back to Seattle," he told Michael. "She wouldn't even come back for Jenny's and Nathan's wedding."

Well, thought Michael, climbing Profanity Hill with his customary resentment, she had come back now. Tonight he would see her. Six would get you ten Jason was at the house this very minute.

Michael found Dan Farmer alone in his office. He welcomed Michael with heartiness. "Hear you're going to France tomorrow, boy. Don't stay away too long."

Michael ignored the comment. He asked bluntly about Anna Lurkins. He wanted to leave no tag ends from the Beaumont trial.

"Still in the asylum at Stella-coom," Dan said. "Doctors say she's there for good."

"No trace of Ryerson?"

Dan looked for malice; seeing none, he allowed his discouragement to show. "He's probably in China or South America by now. We'll never catch that caggy."

Michael agreed and wasn't sorry. Ryerson might be a scoundrel, but they'd been good friends in those trenches. Michael was still amused at Jason's enduring anger. The first victims of the swindle had attempted to hold Jason responsible; though his innocence was quickly established, the affront of Ryerson rankled with him.

Michael hadn't failed to taunt him. "If your boat hadn't sunk off the Alaskan coast, Ryerson might now be a Klondike millionaire instead of a fugitive."

Jason hadn't appreciated the joke, Michael remembered, and was aware that Dan was again speaking of his coming trip. "Be in Frisco long, Michael?"

"Perhaps. I'll go to Nome later."

Dan squirmed, hating the Nome scandals. Too many public officials were involved. A month ago, a new law had given civil government to Alaska, made it illegal for aliens to locate mining claims. McKenzie, Washington lobbyist, used the dodge to fatten his own purse. Noyes, the judge, had appointed McKenzie receiver for dozens of disputed claims, with powers to seize personal property, even previously mined gold. Michael had been retained by a mining company who was taking the fight to the appellate court in San Francisco.

"It'll be a tough battle, Michael,"

Dan said. "Well, hurry back to Seattle."

Heading down the hill, Michael acknowledged he would return. Seattle was now his mistress in truth. Anyhow, he wouldn't have to be around when Meg married Jason.

Dropping into a bar, he found Tim O'Brien, looking glum.

"Did you know Jason's moving to Portland when he opens his new store there? Going to leave Nathan in charge here."

"That right?" Michael's respect for Jason mounted. He must have recognized that living in Seattle would be hard for Meg. Love grafted unexpected insight into the lover.

Tim scowled. "Something's off kilter," he confided. "I met Jason coming out of Matilda's an hour ago. Not a word to throw to a dog, he hadn't. You don't reckon Meg's fought with him, do you? I tell you, that girl's mighty contrary by spells."

The dull lethargy that had invaded him left Michael. He knew a stabbing, revitalizing hope. He turned from the bar, threw money in the general direction of the bartender and bolted into the street, disregarding Tim's anxious shouts. Maybe even a procrastinating idiot had a chance. He had been mad not to be waiting on the stoop when Meg came back from Victoria!

In his haste, he almost missed the open door of the Fleur hat shop. Of course! Meg would head for the shop at once. Meg in her normal frame of mind would hate having the shop closed since Jenny's March wedding.

She was standing forlornly before the display table and wheeled about in surprise as he entered. She gave him a quick smile. "The shop's not yet open, Michael. Want to buy a hat?"

He could not answer her in their old light banter. He seized her hands, searched her face. "Meg! Are you marrying Jason?"

He felt her withdrawal but held her fast and after a long silence, she shook her head.

"Why not?"

He wanted to take her into his arms, but his mind, in perverse control, refused. He wanted her with a completeness that astounded him, but instinct told him he could not take possession without a clear field.

"Why aren't you marrying him, Meg?" He heard his own voice with contempt. Why couldn't he discard logic? Women wanted aggression, decision. If he reached

Correct Eating Habits

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EAT slowly if you want to help avoid indigestion. Indigestion or dyspepsia can be caused by a number of diseases originating in the gastro-intestinal tract or elsewhere in your body.

Can Be Corrected

Generally, however, it can be traced directly to your eating habits. And this is something you can readily correct.

Symptoms of indigestion are easy to recognize. For many of you, I'm afraid, they are too familiar. The signals may include nausea, upper abdominal pain, heartburn, a sense of fullness and frequent belching. They may occur while you're eating or immediately afterward.

However, you can do a lot to eliminate the danger of indigestion just by following a few simple rules.

Eat Slowly

First, eat slowly. Take at least an hour for a meal.

This can't always be done at the lunchtime, but it can and should be the rule for your evening meal. Getting up a little earlier in the morning will allow time for a leisurely breakfast, too.

Whenever possible, eat in a quiet, pleasant and relaxing atmosphere. Avoid emotional upsets while eating. In other words, don't argue or discuss business deals at the dinner table.

Eat a balanced diet and chew your food thoroughly. Eating slowly will help greatly in this respect.

Some foods, no matter how slowly you eat them, might tend to give you indigestion. Among them are radishes, cucumbers, onions, turnips, beans, cabbage and foods with a high fat content. Any poorly cooked foods might bring on a case of indigestion.

Eating Too Much

Eating too much is as bad as eating too quickly. Constipation also might tend to bring on symptoms of indigestion.

Don't smoke immediately before eating. And be sure to avoid any excitement right after finishing your meals.

And see your doctor if your symptoms do not clear up.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. P. D.: I have little bony knobs on my fingers and have difficulty and pain in moving the fingers. What is causing this?

Answer: You are probably suffering from a type of osteoarthritis.

The exact cause for this disorder is not known, although the presence of infection somewhere in the body is a contributing cause. It would be best for you to consult your physician in regard to this disease.

Professor Hodgkin To Judge Art League's Spring Exhibit

Awards To Be Given For Best Paintings

Marsten D. Hodgkin, professor at Miami University in Oxford since 1927, will judge the Spring Art Exhibit of the Circleville Art League. The show will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the court house.

Professor Hodgkin's name appears in Who's Who in American Art Volume 3 and Who's Who in America since 1950. He has judged art shows in Richmond, Ind., and Dayton and has served on the jury of the Provincetown, Mass., Art Association for the past two years.

In 1954 Professor Hodgkin won the purchase prize at Dayton Art Institute, the Winterlich award in 1955 and first prize in watercolor in 1956 in the Richmond Art Association show.

Ribbons will be given for the first, second and third prizes in oil, watercolor and miscellaneous paintings.

Members of the Junior Art League will also enter paintings which will be judged.

A silver trophy, now on display in the window of the L. & M. Butch Company, will be awarded for the best painting in the show.

Mrs. W. W. Robinson and Miss Ruth E. Montelius will be co-chairman for the exhibit.

Those participating are: Pauline Adkins, Mrs. Edwin C. Bach Jr., Edith Fout Bell, Naomi Frazer, Rita Howell, V. Faunce Kuhns, Mrs. Kenneth Luna, Evelyn R. Montelius, Harry E. Montelius, Ruth E. Montelius and Martha E. Reid.

Others will be: Gertrude Robinson, Oren A. Webb, Bernice Wiggins, Bianca C. Wyllie, Ruth H. Barrett, Merle R. Collins, Mary M. Wood, Roy Wood, Laura Hutzelman and Russ McFarland.

Installation Rites Highlights Meet

Installation of officers highlighted the meeting of the Women's Society of World Service of the First EUB Church.

Officers installed for the coming year were: president, Mrs. Mabel Estep; vice-president, Miss Lucille Kirkwood; secretary, Mrs. Porter Martin and treasurer, Miss Gladys Noggle.

Others were: secretary of spiritual life, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood Jr.; Christian social relations, Mrs. Howard Conley; missionary education, Mrs. Edwin Richardson; young people, Miss Marjorie Francis and children's work, Mrs. LeRoy Thomas.

Mrs. Edwin Richardson, leader, opened the meeting by leading the group in singing, "We've a Story To Tell To The Nation." Mrs. Richardson discussed the topic, "A new community."

Mrs. Estep gave the scripture and Mrs. Montford Kirkwood Sr. led the group in prayer.

Connie Estep, Joan Horine, Sandra Gibbs, Ella Mae Styers and Marguerite Sims presented the topics, "Our Relationship With God" and "Our Relationship With Man."

A vocal solo was given by Judy Horine.

The business session was conducted by president, Mrs. Estep. The group made plans for the Mother-Daughter banquet May 10 at the Service Center.

Lunch was served to the 21 members and seven visitors by Mrs. Hillis Hall, Mrs. Ralph Bennington and Mrs. Carlos Brown.

Hockman Couple Feted At Event On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hockman celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a reception in the Methodist Church of Laurelville.

The honored couple received their guests in the church lounge. The bride of fifty years ago, wore a silk taffeta dress with a pearl necklace and orchid corsage.

The church lounge was decorated with large floral pieces of yellow stock, gladiolas and roses.

The refreshment table was centered with a five tier wedding cake complemented with an arrangement of yellow roses. The Les Ames Sunday School class served the guests.

The Rev. Richard McDowell, in behalf of the church and Sunday school presented a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Hockman as a token of appreciation for their loyalty and work in the church during the past 50 years.

The afternoon celebration was climaxed with a dinner for the immediate family in the Pickaway Arms. Clayton Hockman gave the blessing.

Mr. Otis E. Hockman of Mt. Sterling, Mr. Clayton Hockman of Bexley, and Mrs. J. L. Chilcote of Circleville are the sons and daughter of the honored couple.

Mrs. Ellen Evans, who resides with her daughter, Miss Mabel Evans of Lancaster, is the mother of Mrs. Hockman. Mr. Boyd Evans of Logan is a brother.

Mrs. Henry W. Stoddy of Inglewood, Calif., Mrs. Newton Stoddy of Logan, Mr. Hugh F. Craven of Rockville, Ind., and Mr. Howard Hockman of Canal Winchester are sisters and the brother of Mr. Hockman.

Weaver-Schrader Plan Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Ilem C. Weaver of New Straitsville are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lola, to Mr. Gail Schrader, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Schrader of Ashville.

Miss Weaver is a graduate of New Straitsville High School and Mr. Schrader attended Walnut High School. Both are employed by the Lancaster Lens Company.

The wedding will be an event of June 10.

PEANUT BUTTER HONEY CRACKLES

Yield: 5 dozen cookies

1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour	1/4 cup strained honey
1 1/4 teaspoons Clabber Girl Baking Powder	1 egg
1/4 teaspoon salt	Chocolate pieces or shelled, salted, whole peanuts
1/4 cup shortening	3 tablespoons granulated sugar
1/4 cup peanut butter	1/2 teaspoon ground orange rind
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

Sift together flour, Baking Powder, and salt. Cream together thoroughly the shortening, peanut butter, brown sugar, and honey. Beat in egg. Stir in dry ingredients until blended. Form into 1-inch balls; insert 1 chocolate piece or 1 peanut meat into center of each ball and reshape. Combine granulated sugar with orange rind and roll "balls" in this mixture. Place balls 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a 375° F. (moderate) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned and cracked. Cool on cake racks.

Annual Food Show Slated For 3 Nights In Coliseum

Like true showmen, the stars of the Gasco Food Institute — which arrives here next week — live by the traditional vaudeville axiom, "the show must go on".

Each year, two troupes weather all sorts of obstacles to meet a rugged schedule that is laid out over a four-state area, including this district.

The food institute is the biggest traveling cooking school in Ohio. Started eight years ago, the participants have traveled a total of more than 55,000 miles—enough to circle the earth twice.

The institute's annual visit to the Circleville district is scheduled for three days beginning next Tuesday. The all-new show this year will be staged in the coliseum at the Pickaway County fairgrounds.

STARTING time each night will be 8 p. m., and admission will be free. The annual program is sponsored by The Circleville Herald, Ohio Fuel Gas Company, and co-operating merchants.

This year's attractions will include fancy recipes, useful household advice, and a style show of men and women fashions.

Sarah R. Gallaher, local Betty Newton, will assist Food Institute Lecturer Mildred Dunn and Institute Manager Jay Parker throughout the show.

Members of the food institute staff have played before nearly a half million people. Most of their audiences are in Ohio, but the food institute also makes appearances in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Virginia. On top of that, the cooking school gave a special "command" performance in 1954 in New York City before an audience of magazine and newspaper editors.

Two separate shows are necessary because Ohio is too big to cover with just one. One of the shows performs in the northern part of the state. The other moves through the southern half of Ohio, and into other states.

Neither of the troupes has ever missed a performance date. But there have been times when it took every bit of determination to get the show on stage.

PERHAPS THE most distressing experience was the southern Ohio group's trip from Columbus to Crooksville last winter. The 70-mile drive—normally a two-hour trip—took 18 hours. A blinding snowstorm hit the cooking school truck-and-trailer outfit just as it left Columbus.

By the time cooking school lecturer Dunn and Manager Parker reached Crooksville, they were worn almost to the point of exhaustion. The bout with the elements also took a heavy toll on the truck. It was put in a garage for major brake, clutch, and wheel repairs. But the show went on as scheduled.

Then there was the time when northern Ohio cooking school Manager Bob Eichhorn accidentally broke his glasses, and was unable to get new ones before the show started. He went through an entire

Strategic Airmen Slated For Tests

COLUMBUS (AP)—The best crews in the Strategic Air Command will converge on Lockbourne Air Force Base in August for the annual SAC bombing and navigation reconnaissance competition.

A base spokesman said that Gen. Curtis LeMay, SAC commander, and other top Air Force and Defense Department officials will be here to witness the tests.

show, admittedly unable to "see a thing".

Lecturer Harriett Wolfe and Eichhorn saved another show from trouble by performing by candle light after electrical storm had knocked out their stage lighting at Bowling Green, Ohio.

Miss Dunn and Parker recall a memorable Sunday visit to Beckley, W. Va. A trunk filled with china dropped as it was being unloaded at the auditorium. Dozens of broken dishes had to be glued together before the show, as there were no stores open where the dishes could be replaced.

As could be expected, illness at times also poses problems. The food institute is recognized as a family show. It provides a variety of entertainment, sound tips on home cooking, and other household ideas.

THE WHOLE THING is masterminded by Mary E. Huck, home service director of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company. Born in Lowell, O., Miss Huck joined Ohio Fuel after she was graduated from Ohio University in Athens.

The lecturers and managers of the institute are regular employees of the gas company, and have regular jobs at the general offices in Columbus, when not on the road.

Interurban Whistle To 'Call Dinner'

PAINESVILLE (AP)—An old interurban car whistle that used to warn cows off the tracks will be "dinner bell" for some 65 employees of the long defunct Cleveland, Painesville and Eastern Railway when they hold their 28th reunion here May 9.

The C. P. & E. went out of business 30 years ago.

The interurban line's first car left Cleveland July 4, 1896, amid much fanfare and celebration. For 30 years it ran between Cleveland and Ashtabula.

Cleric's Wife Selected As 'Mrs. Ohio'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Wilfred M. Butch, 31, Columbus mother of four, has been named the 1956 "Mrs. Ohio."

Mrs. Butch was judged the winner Wednesday over 20 other Ohio finalists on the basis of homemaking ability as well as personality and poise.

She will go next month to Ellinger Village, Fla., for the finals in the "Mrs. America" contest. Mrs. Butch is the wife of the pastor to the Lutheran students at Ohio State University.

Other finalists included: Mrs. Herbert Wilgus, Cadiz; Mrs. Carl Patterson, Athens; Mrs. Philip R. Gilbert, Coshocton; Mrs. William D. Dayton, Marysville; Mrs. Darwin Kramer, Fremont; Mrs. Harold Alexander, Big Prairie; Mrs. John Weiser, Wooster; Mrs. William Labuda, Warren; Mrs. Thomas Mutton, New Philadelphia, and Mrs. Roy Pratt, Conneaut.

Ohio Props Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department's minimum average price support rate on this year's crop of Ohio cigar filler will be 23 cents a pound—90 per cent of parity. Last year's rate was 24.

Sokolsky's These Days

However, among the remaining nobility of Europe this is about all that is left and it makes a big difference whether you are addressed as "your majesty," "your highness," "your grace," or "your excellency." It also makes a difference in salary, if the person involved still has a job. In most countries, the nobility is out of work in their profession.

In the 19th and early 20th centuries, it was customary for American girls of rich parents to marry into the European nobility. That is how Winston Churchill got his father and mother. Some of these marriages were successful; some were fiascos because the American woman could not adjust to the ways of the European noblemen. After World War I, fewer such marriages occurred.

But whenever one did take place, Americans just ate it up, as they do anything unusual like when an elevator girl becomes a Hollywood star and runs through five husbands before the studios forget to take up her option.

The biggest thing that has happened in this line in many decades is the Kelly-Grimaldi marriage because Grace Kelly makes a really grand show.

Thomas Alva Edison's first words recited into the phonograph were "Mary had a little lamb."

Cookie's off to the GASCO-HERALD FOOD INSTITUTE where there's new cooking tips to make everybody's work easier! Coming April 24, 25 and 26 to the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Delinquent Girls' Father Sentenced

AKRON (AP)—The father of two teenage girls who police said were engaging in prostitution in a rundown tenement has been sentenced to spend his three-week vacation in jail.

Juvenile Court Judge Russell W. Thomas sentenced George Tavie, 51, to six months in jail, but suspended all but three weeks. Tavie, a rubber worker, starts his vacation in jail next week.

Assistant Prosecutor James Barbuto said Tavie, married the second time the day before he appeared in court, had left his daughters, 14 and 17, to shift for themselves for some time. Tavie was convicted of neglect of minor children and contributing to their delinquency.

Big Business Chieftains Take Look Ahead

Stockholders Told Of Things Expected In Future Months

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—When the owners get together with the top hands of American corporations—and this is the season for annual stockholders meetings and reports—they often show most interest in what their caretakers see ahead.

Let's look at what business leaders in many fields reported on just one day of this busy week—not on what they said about the water already under the bridge but what they see coming down the stream. Scattered through their annual accounts are tips on higher prices, more consumer buying, faster profits, more spending for expansion, more efficiently run plants, easing shortages, and further inroads of women into top managements. These are for just individual firms and don't necessarily apply to business as a whole.

General Motors sees higher car prices next fall if the steel price hike goes through as now expected. Phelps Dodge, on the other hand, sees a balance between copper demand and supply near at hand, which could make for steadier prices in that high-flying metal.

B. F. Goodrich looks for more use of man-made rubber ahead and less of natural. Libbey-Owens-Ford looks for high demand for its products because of the present fashion to live in glass houses and work in glass offices.

General Electric is pinning its hopes on the consumers. It sees its government business leveling off but expects high sales totals.

Sun Oil is banking on more efficiencies and economies in its operations before the year is over. Braniff Airways expects its profits to pickup after new equipment arrives this fall. Pan American World Airways has its eyes on 1958 when it will start using jet planes.

Stockholders are also getting cheerful predictions for still higher sales and profits in the remaining months of 1956.

American Machine & Foundry executives say higher sales are around the corner. So does Magnavox Co.

Alco products thinks it can report higher profits to its stockholders next time. So does United States Rubber.

The famous astronomer Galileo first used the telescope to observe the heavens.

3 Women Seeking Top DAR Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three slates of candidates lined up today for the top offices in the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR). The polls for voting will be open today after Wednesday night's nominations.

Among the three women running for president-general of the women's patriotic organization, Mrs. Charles Carroll Haig of Washington drew the No. 1 spot on the ballot. Mrs. Thomas Henry Lee of Philadelphia will be second and Mrs. Frederic A. Groves, Cape Girardeau, Mo., third.

Among those running with Mrs. Groves on her ticket is Mrs. Lowell E. Burnelle, Gloucester, Ohio.

Youngstown Tube OKs Industries

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. welcomes new industries in the area, says President J. L. Mauthe. He told the Greater Youngstown Area Foundation that there was no truth to reports the company opposed new industries because of their possible effect in the labor market.

He made the statements in connection with an announcement that Sheet & Tube may spend an additional $20 million to expand its Mahoning Valley plants. Earlier in the year, the company revealed a $40 million expansion and modernization program.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crisp, golden-brown, fried chicken, that American favorite, again will appear on the tables of many value-conscious housewives this weekend.

One big chain will feature this item at 39 cents a pound, down from 45, and similar reductions will prevail elsewhere in various shopping centers throughout the nation.

Small turkeys and beef round roast will share the spotlight at reductions of about four cents.

Depending on your community, a variety of meats will be specially priced despite the rise in wholesale prices. Sirloin steak and lamb, however, are generally higher. Eggs are down a cent or two while butter is about unchanged.

As spring gets under way, such vegetables as cabbage, pascal celery, sweet potatoes, iceberg lettuce and spinach are in the category of good buys. Corn, while in this class, is on the high side but is coming down. Maine old potatoes can be classed as good buys but they're rising. Oranges and grapefruit are good buys even though they're higher than last week.

VA To Get Rent From Properties

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Veterans Administration is going to try to collect rents for homes it owns under a court order but whose former owners still live in them.

The government has deposited $241,000 in court to pay for a row of houses on a site where it proposes to build a VA hospital. The property owners have complained the prices offered were too low.

A VA official said yesterday, "the government has authority to charge rents when it takes title."

Methodist Women Select Officers

DAYTON (AP)—The Ohio Conference of the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service has elected Mrs. Warren Bright of Urbana vice president.

Others elected yesterday included: Mrs. M. R. Betz, Clayton, secretary of Christian social relations, and Mrs. D. A. Huston, Ada, secretary of literature and publications.

Mrs. C. L. Spaid of Findlay, president, was elected last year for a two-year term.

Soon as I drop this off, I'm heading for the GASCO-HERALD FOOD INSTITUTE with the Missus! April 24, 25 and 26 in the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Mystery Postcards Come From 'Grace'

CHAUMONT, N. Y. (AP)—Several perplexing postcards signed "Grace" and bearing Monte Carlo, Monaco, postmarks and stamps have been received in this village and surrounding communities.

One was addressed to Henry Gannon, a Chaumont hotel employee. The message read:

"The Prince and I wish that you could be here for our wedding. We will be thinking of you though, and of dear old Ireland."

DiSalle Records His 117th Speech

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, stumping Ohio for the Democratic nomination for governor, made his 117th speech here last night.

The former Toledo mayor, who has appeared in 81 of the 88 counties of the state, declared that public officials should rely on their own judgment rather than public opinion polls.

"Unless elected officials and representatives exercise their own judgment, we can dispense with legislative bodies and rely on a clerical gathering of public opinion," he said.

Berra Gunning For His Fourth MVP Award

Stubby Yank Catcher Drives In 7 Of 19 Runs In Two Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Yogi Berra's running this "most valuable player" thing into the ground.

With three American League MVP plaques already up on the game-room wall in his Woodcliff Lake, N.J., home, the 31-year-old New York Yankee catcher is off to his best start yet in a shot at an unprecedented fourth award.

The Yanks have scored 19 runs in walloping the Senators twice so far in Washington and Yogi, always a dangerous hitter with a man on base, has driven in seven of them. He just plain gave the Senators a fit — reaching base safely in his first nine trips to the plate in the two games with five hits and four walks.

It wasn't until his 10th trip that Washington—showing even worse pitching than was expected—finally got him out, on a pop foul. That was in the eighth inning of Wednesday night's game and by then the damage had been done as the Yankees scored four times in the first off ex-teammate Bob Weisler.

The 2-0 record enabled the Yankees to keep pace with Boston's Red Sox, who rallied to beat Baltimore 8-4 Wednesday for their second straight.

Chicago and Cleveland were idle. Cold weather postponed Kansas City at Detroit.

The National League had only one game scheduled, and the New York Giants scored twice in the ninth to take another one-run decision from Pittsburgh 5-4.

Billy Martin took up where Berra left off for the Yanks, driving in four runs as New York scored six runs in the first three innings off Wiesler and then added three more in the fourth off rookie Hal Griggs. That was enough to shrug off a three-run Washington rally that chased starter Johnny Kucks

Ohio Fading Fast As Home Of Minor League Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio, as many as four or five different leagues were operating in Ohio, but all have passed on.

On a country-wide basis, the high of 59 leagues and 444 clubs reached in 1949 has dwindled to 27 circuits and 209 teams as of today—but all the Ohio parks have disappeared.

Just what happened, no one seems to be able to pin down. Some say the minors can't compete with Cleveland and Cincinnati and their major league radio and telecasts. Some say the towns just lost interest.

Through Ohio's minor league mill, and on to stardom in the majors paraded such greats as Cy Young, Honus Wagner, Bill McKechnie, Hank Gowdy, Burt Shotton, Allie Reynolds, Billy Southworth, Johnny Vander Meer, Dutch Leonard, Eddie Stanky, Hank Sauer, Tommy Henrich, Mike Ryba, Jim Hegan, Joe Collins, Bill Doak, Johnny Rigney, Ernie Bonham, Babe Phelps, Billy Herman, Roger Bresnahan, Paul Dean.

The oldtime fans can look back down the last half-century and recall when the following leagues boasted these Ohio teams:

American Association — Toledo and Columbus.
Western Association — Marion, Dayton, Toledo and Columbus.
Central League — Dayton, Lima, Marion, Springfield, Youngstown, Zanesville, Akron and Canton.
Mid-Atlantic — Dayton, Portsmouth, Akron and Zanesville.

Ohio State — Dayton, Lima, Marion, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield, Zanesville, Middletown, Findlay, Fostoria, Fremont, Mansfield, Tiffin, Sandusky, Coshocton, New Philadelphia, Chillicothe, Ironton, Hamilton, Lancaster and Piqua.

Ohio-Indiana — Lima, Marion, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield and Zanesville.

Ohio-Pennsylvania — Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Mansfield, Steubenville, Alliance, Salem and East Liverpool.
Interstate — Youngstown, Zanesville, Akron, Canton and Steubenville.
New International — Akron.
Pennsylvania State — Warren.
Mountain States — Middleport, Pomeroy.
Southern Michigan — Toledo.

Frank Thomas homered twice for the Bucs, who chased starter Ruben Gomez with three runs in the fourth.

The second one-run defeat left two Pirates — Roberto Clemente and Dale Long—with 25 fines for what freshman manager Bobby Bragan termed "careless plays."

Pair Of Old Pros Favored In Meet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The second annual $15,000 Hot Spring Open Golf Tournament opened here today. Bo Winger is the defending champion and Cary Middlecoff, the former Memphis dentist, is considered the class of the field of about 70. Winger, from Oklahoma City, is rated a good chance to repeat because of the ease with which he conquered the par-72 course last year.

Both Middlecoff and Winger shot practice 69s yesterday, but they were bested by Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Fort Worth, who turned in a 68.

Bobby Boyd Asks Shot At Humez

CHICAGO (AP) — After taking a soundly-boiled 10-round split decision over Holly Mims, Bobby Boyd now is aiming for Charley Humez as another stepping stone to a chance at the middleweight crown.

Boyd, regarded the hottest title prospect out of Chicago in five years and ranked No. 2 among contenders, managed to gain his 10th straight victory. He knocked his Washington, D.C.

opponent to the canvas with a short right in the sixth round. It was the first solid blow Boyd could land. He staggered Mims with another right to the head in the eighth and got through another solid right in the ninth.

Boyd missed repeated leads earlier and took several good rights fired by Mims from inside. But although Mims beat Boyd to the punch often in the first five rounds he failed to punch often enough to hold his early lead later on.

Under the Illinois maximum 10-points-per-round system, Judge

John Bray scored in favor of Mims 93-90. Judge Spike McAdams gave it to Boyd 98-90 and Referee Bernard Weissman was for Boyd 97-92.

seconds
the motion!

(... and America votes It
The Gear of the Year)

IT'S AN ECONOMY CHAMPION, TOO!
Jetaway-equipped Oldsmobiles rocketed to double victory in 1956 Mobilgas Economy Run!

HERE'S A CANDIDATE for the most talked-about "secret" of all time! It's the secret of the smoothness—the revolutionary second coupling—in Oldsmobile's new Jetaway Hydra-Matic!

Oldsmobile first used a fluid coupling to cushion automatic gear transitions in the original Hydra-Matic Drive. And it was this famous transmission that opened the door to the whole era of automatic driving.

Now, in Oldsmobile's new Jetaway, not one, but two fluid couplings harness the go-power of the mighty Rocket Engine—soften the surge of Rocket action!

Fluid in the second coupling fills and spills with jetlike speed—cushions gear transitions so they're almost imperceptible! In other words, Jetaway seconds the motion—gives you all the flow of fluid, yet retains all the solid, thrilling go of gears!

NEW DUAL DOWNSHIFTING FOR EXTRA SAFETY!

What's more, Jetaway features new dual downshift action—at traffic and cruising speeds—to split-second the motion, too. Just wait till you try it, teamed with Oldsmobile's new Rocket Engine—240 horsepower strong, charged with a 9.25-to-1 compression ratio—delivering a breath-taking 350 lb.-ft. of torque!

JETAWAY SMOOTHNESS... BEAUTY TO MATCH!

You'll go for the glamor of Oldsmobile, too! There's massive magnificence and solid assurance in the advance-design "Intagrilite Protection." It's two front bumpers in one for bumper high and low—an Oldsmobile first, an Oldsmobile exclusive—more unmistakable evidence of Oldsmobile's styling leadership! And it's all underscored by Oldsmobile's ruggedly-built, quality-built chassis featuring sturdy Six-Point Suspension to increase riding comfort and roadability.

Sum it all up—performance, power and appearance—you've got to go some to equal it! Yet Oldsmobile prices start right down with many models in the low-price field—and value is right up with the highest at resale time! Stop at our showroom for a demonstration, now!

*Standard on Series Ninety-Eight, optional at extra cost on all other series.

County Baseball Tourney Starts Next Monday

The first round of the 1956 Pickaway County Baseball Tournament will be held next Monday, April 23, at Ashville, Pickaway Township drew a bye.

New Holland will meet Jackson Township at 10 a. m. and Scioto and Darby Townships will take the field at 1 p. m. The winners of these two games will collide at 1 p. m. on Wednesday, April 25 in the semi-finals.

The other first round game will pit Walnut against Ashville at 3 p. m. Monday. The winner of this game will meet Pickaway at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

The championship will be decided on April 30 at 3 p. m. A trophy will be awarded.

IN CASE of postponement, the schedule will be delayed one day. No two games will be played on consecutive days.

Charles Baxter, Jackson Township School coach, is chairman of the tournament committee.

Redlegs Pin Hopes On Aging Rookie

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs, left at the post for the sixth time in the last seven years in the race for the National League pennant, were counting today on an aging rookie to help them.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts named Pat Scantlebury to pitch the second game of the season against the St. Louis Cardinals. Scantlebury is a newcomer to major league baseball competition but he has been around for quite a spell.

The Redleg roster lists him as 31 years old, but other estimates figure his age at anywhere from there to 40 or more.

Columbus Jets Win Opening Ball Game

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche tossed the first pitch to Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner as the Columbus Jets Jets opened their second International League baseball season yesterday with a 4-3 victory over Montreal.

A crowd of 2,075 turned out in 39 degree temperature to watch the Jets edge the defending league champions.

Head groundskeeper Herman Frank, who has supervised the opening of 18 seasons for Columbus teams, said it was the coldest starting day he could remember.

All persons interested should call at the office of the Service Director and inspect said Ordinance and zone map incorporated therein in order that he or she may more intelligently discuss said Ordinance No. 3943 at the public

Judge Reverses Trainer Suspension

COLUMBUS (AP)—An Ohio Racing Commission decision, suspending a trainer for 100 days, was reversed yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Robert M. Draper.

The trainer, Howard L. Ewing, was suspended after the commission said a drug had been found in the saliva of the racehorse "Old Satan" which won the fifth race at River Downs track June 9, 1955.

In reversing the decision, Judge Draper said "there is no evidence offered that the drug stimulated the horse or affected its speed."

Ohio Fishing Prospects Said Fair To Poor

COLUMBUS (AP)—Weather conditions continue to play havoc with fishermen's activities in Ohio, with few fish of any species being taken in either lakes or streams, the Ohio Division of Wildlife reported today.

The division gave this breakdown on area conditions:

Northwest—Brightest spot seems to be East Harbor where some bass are being taken. Oxbow Lake in Defiance County and Lake St. Marys in Auglaize and Mercer counties somewhat roily, with few fish of any species being taken.

Southeast—Most waters are roily and somewhat high, and few fish of any species being taken. Outlook for weekend only fair.

Central and South — Streams vary from clear to roily with lakes in about the same condition. Few fish being taken and outlook for weekend is fair to poor.

Southwest — Most lakes and streams roily with few fish being taken, although some bass, crappies and catfish have been reported in Indian and Kiser lakes and a few trout being taken from Mad River and its tributaries in Champaign County. Outlook for weekend is poor.

Trotters, Stars Slated For Finale

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The injury-ridden Harlem Globetrotters carry a lead of 11 games to nine into their final exhibition basketball contest with the College All-Stars here tonight.

Six-foot-seven Tommy Heinsohn of Holy Cross, All-Star center, poured in 27 points last night as the collegians won 70-60 at the arena in Cleveland.

Bob (Showboat) Hall, the Trotters' pivot man, was ill in Chicago and did not play, and Leon Hillard, the Trotters' dribbling star, was crippled by a knee injury and played only briefly in the second half.

Official Explains Why Cancer Fund Campaign Independent

Three Reasons Justify Group's Stand On Funds

Society Feels That More Money Gained Through Own Drive

An explanation of why the local cancer fund raising drive remains an independent campaign was given today by Dr. J. A. Cunningham, head of the local cancer group.

He listed three major reasons: 1. The failure of American Cancer Society units in federated fund raising campaigns to keep pace with independent units in the face of the need for more funds for cancer control; 2. The need for stepped-up growth in the face of cancer's increased threat; and 3. The need for continuing and expanding education.

"RESEARCH is our major hope," Dr. Cunningham pointed out. "We are now standing at what scientists feel is the end of the beginning. We have exciting, hopeful leads."

"Through the money the American public has given, much has been learned about hormones, vitamins, chemicals, etc. Even more hope is brought about by new radioactive substances made possible by atomic bomb reactors."

Dr. Cunningham said that last year the American Cancer Society could grant only two-thirds of the funds needed by research scientists. He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of persons are "lost" each year that the final discovery of a cure is delayed.

"A Community Chest drive which is raising funds for a large group of agencies could not begin to tell the life-saving facts about cancer," he said, "and repeat them again and again as is done in the independent crusade. We hope to remain good friends with everyone. But we are convinced the easy way of joining a federation would slow down the flow of money for research, education and service. We must increase the tempo of the attack and accelerate the crusade against cancer."

DR. CUNNINGHAM said there were three reasons for the present concern in the fight against cancer:

1. The pressure of time. "Cancer is not only an urgent problem but a growing one. It will strike over the years in two out of three homes. An increase in contributions will speed up the tempo of the attack."

2. Economics. "Experience has taught the cancer society that it raises more money through its own drive than through a federated effort. The increased threat of cancer demands increasing support of funds."

3. Education. "There is a need to reach every man, woman and child in America. A federated drive for a group of agencies cannot begin to tell all the facts."

He added that "we believe our decision to remain independent of a federated drive is a wise one—one that we hope the community will understand and respect. Our cancer society faces the most challenging disease in our time, so let's give the society our attention, friendship and support." Anyone suffering from cancer is asked to call the Rev. Jack Bennett at 745 for aid.

New Idle Pay Claims Decline

COLUMBUS (AP)—New applications for unemployment compensation totaled 7,253 for the week ended April 14 compared with 8,689 the previous week, the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

Continuing claims for the week ended April 14 totaled 52,810 compared with 53,412 the previous week.

Nearly All Stolen Drivers' Licenses Said Recovered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Capt. F. C. Moon, investigating chief of the state highway patrol, has confirmed that a "goodly portion" of 525 blank drivers' licenses stolen from a warehouse of the bureau of motor vehicles last January has been recovered.

Moon said Wednesday three parolees have been returned to the Ohio State Penitentiary as a result of the investigation of the theft. Moon said trustees from the prison were employed in the warehouse. All licenses recovered were found in the possession of the three returned parolees, he said.

Moon identified them as: Kenneth C. Schaar, 44, Cleveland; James Birt, 29, Celina; and Joseph Halko, 32, Elyria. Schaar and Birt were serving 1-20 year terms for forgery and Halko a 1-20 year sentence for auto theft.

Youthful Burglary Suspects Grabbed

AKRON (AP)—A policeman surprised four youths in a home here yesterday and shot one through a shoulder.

Two of the remaining three were captured shortly after that and the third still was being sought. Officer Donald W. Dixon, hired by several residents of the neighborhood to keep an eye on their homes, surprised the youths as he was checking the house of B. C. Hartline, out of town.

Dixon fired and hit Gerald C. Beitzel, 23, in the left shoulder. Cruiser police nabbed James V. Bowden, 23, in an auto. Then Bowden led them to another youth, Kenneth W. Yensen, 20.

Political Fence-Jumping Case Eyed By High Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Counsel for a Trumbull County man argued in the Ohio Supreme Court today that he should be allowed to run for Congress despite a party switching barrier.

The court took under study the request of Hugo F. Bouse Jr. for an order to place his name on May 8 primary election ballots as a Democratic candidate in the 11th District of Northeastern Ohio.

The Trumbull County election board turned down Bouse's petitions under a new law requiring a candidate to be a party member for four consecutive years.

Bouse lives in Vienna near Warren. He said he voted Republican in 1952 but later registered as a Democrat. The county board threw out his congressional petitions in 1954 because the law then required party membership in a preceding election. The Legislature last year changed the law to require four years of party membership.

Samuel Petkovich, counsel for Bouse, asserted the new law was "made for political bosses . . . it is strictly a political law." He said nearness of the election should not prevent Bouse from getting on the ballot.

Hugh A. Sherer, chief counsel for Ohio Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, and Trumbull County prosecutor C. H. Anderson, argued for dismissal of Bouse's action. Commenting on the new law, Anderson said:

"This is a legislative enactment that they had a right to make. This court would go beyond its powers if it went into it."

"The Legislature can set rules for persons offering themselves (as candidates). I don't think he (Bouse) should be allowed to get over the fence."

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant inquired:

"If a Republican wants to become a Democrat there should be a probationary period?"

"Well, yes, both ways," Anderson replied amid smiles all around.

Cowboy-Politician Glen Taylor Set For Senate Race

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Glen Taylor, cowboy turned politician who once was a senator and ran for vice president in 1948 on the Progressive party ticket, said Wednesday he would run again for the Senate.

Taylor will seek the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat now held by Republican Herman Welker. Five other Democrats also are trying to win the nomination. One, Mayor Theron Ward of Jerome, also announced his candidacy Wednesday.

It will be Taylor's sixth try for the Senate. He lost the nomination in 1940 and 1942 but won in 1944 and served six years. He ran again but lost in 1950 and 1954.

Now 52, Taylor ran on the Progressive ticket in 1948 with Henry

Teacher Says He Forced To Paddle Girls

MCCONNELSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Slim, bespectacled Jack W. Eberle told a school board hearing at nearby Deavertown Wednesday he had to paddle his students—including five girls—in order to keep order in his classroom.

The 25-year-old Eberle is fighting his ouster on charges of paddling the 15-year-old girl students, teaching Bible in class and insubordination. The hearing opened Wednesday.

Eberle was suspended by the Deavertown school board last Nov. 17 and fired March 14. He requested the hearing to seek reinstatement.

The teacher told the board he had not wanted to paddle the girls, but was forced to maintain order in the classroom. His class was getting to be like a "town meeting," he said.

Eberle, while maintaining that he only "tapped" four of the girls, admitted that he "whammed" the fifth, Judy Smith, five times.

Eberle said Judy one day refused to obey him and also chewed gum in class.

Eberle said he had her to lean across his desk, then: "I whammed her three times and then asked if that was enough. She said no, so I gave her two more."

Eberle, who is also pastor of the Life Begins Bible Church here, testified that he answered students' questions about religion and read them passages from the Bible only during the noon recess.

Eberle said W. O. Porter, county superintendent of schools, had told him that it would be all right to use such time for religious discussions.
